JUSTNOW - A TOOLBOX FOR TEACHING HUMAN RIGHTS

13 MAY 2024 | KRZYŻOWA, POLAND

WHAT IS JUSTNOW – A TOOLBOX FOR TEACHING HUMAN RIGHTS?

The “JustNow – A Toolbox for Teaching Human Rights” was created in response to internal evaluations and requests put forward by organizations and schools that previously participated in the Model International Criminal Court (MICC) project.

This learning platform is designed to support teachers, youth workers and young peer educators to actively create and use MICC-inspired learning approaches for human rights education. To make the abstract subject of human rights accessible to young people and relate it to their life situations, the learning platform offers different materials for different types of learners.

The platform offers activity plans, exercises, and timelines, as well as audio-visual content such as short animation movies which will help young people learn about human rights, diversity, basic democratic values, and the rule of law independently or with the help of an educator. With the innovative approach of small-scale learning modules, this toolbox allows everyone to implement needs-tailored innovative and engaging educational workshops.

The aim of the JustNow - Seminar is to equip a new generation of multipliers with learning approaches of the JustNow – Toolbox for Teaching Human Rights.
